

A Note From the Rousseau's:

This year marks the start of 34 years offering Maine hockey players the opportunity to better enjoy the great game of hockey. Our dad started Rousseau's Hockey Clinic with the intention of passing on his passion for the game to his sons. What started as a small power skating clinic in 1986 has grown to the states most active hockey school. Since our program started in 1986, we have had the privilege to train with over 10,000 Maine hockey players. Today, Rousseau's Hockey clinic trains 700 hockey players each year and employs a staff of nearly 30 instructors and counselors.

Rousseau's Hockey Clinic began with a core philosophy that players with better skills have more fun playing hockey. Whether we are working with a young player who aspires to play at the collegiate level or an adult beginner who's looking to improve his play in his weekly pickup game, helping them improve their skills and understanding game concepts will help them to achieve their goals.

Hockey is a great form of exercise and adult leagues and pickup games are sprouting up across central and southern Maine. If you have never played, our clinic will provide a great introduction to the game. If you are returning to the game or are currently playing in adult groups, our clinic will provide you with an opportunity to hone your skills and gain a better understanding of the game.

We are a family of hockey coaches and have been studying the game for more than 30 years. We have learned how to break down the games skills and concepts to its roots and have developed a curriculum to effectively teach them to players of all levels. Playing hockey is about having fun. It's fun to compete, to improve, to work toward a goal and to achieve it. We hope to have the opportunity to share time with you on the ice this spring.

The Staff...

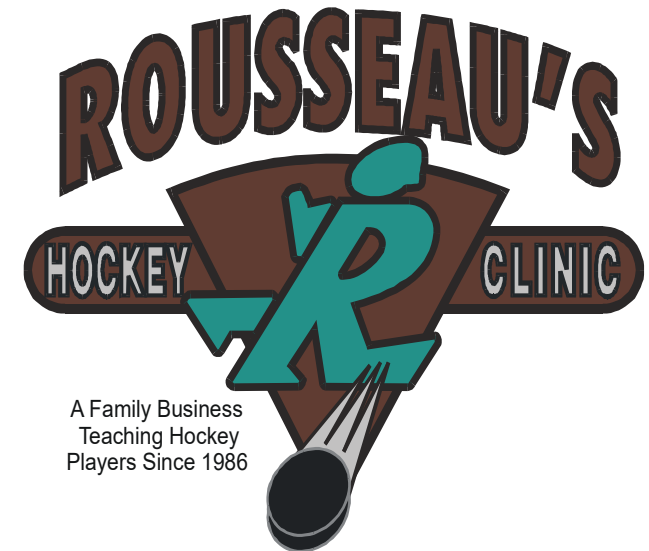

The senior staff at Rousseau's Hockey Clinic includes coach Guy Rousseau and his sons, Gary and Scott, and his three grandchildren Adam, Erik and Lauren and lead goalie instructor John Racine. The family shares tremendous hockey knowledge, vast experience in teaching hockey players, and a demonstrated commitment to helping Maine hockey players improve. The Rousseau family has been conducting their clinic since 1986, revealing their deep understanding of the details involved with proper skating, puck control, and passing skills, but also revealing their methodical and effective approach in sharing this knowledge with players of all ages.

Rousseau's Hockey Clinic also employs a staff of nearly 30 additional instructors and goalie coaches. All instructors are active in youth hockey organizations across the state and all share the Rousseau's passion for the game.

Finally, a number of current and former Rousseau's Hockey Clinic students help balance our staff while serving as counselors. They are all accomplished players in their divisions and support the practice sessions as role models. In addition to possessing quality hockey skills, all of our counselors are engaging young men and women who provide our students with an important level of personal attention during clinic sessions.

The Program...

Our adult men's "Puck Skills" clinic is intended for beginner and novice level players and are designed for adults looking to improve their overall hockey skills.

The curriculum will focus on proper stick handling, passing and shooting skills and will offer drills to put these skills to practice. The objective is to provide instruction on proper technique and ample opportunity and "reps" to engrain these skills.

This clinic will include seven, two-hour ice sessions. The first hour of ice time will consist of a practice session focused on skill development. During the second hour of ice time, we will conduct a controlled scrimmage where we will concentrate on increasing the speed of play while offering individual instruction in between shifts. Each session will also include a fifteen-minute "Chalk Talk" during which essential game concepts are introduced.

This clinic will also feature instruction for goaltenders. We will have a goalie coach at each session and offer specific instruction to goalies.

The cost of the "Puck Skills" clinic is $285, which includes fourteen hours of ice time, a high quality jersey, and over one-hundred-years of experience in developing hockey players. A deposit of $150 is due with your application, and the balance is due by the first session. Space is limited and applications will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

This program promises to be a great workout and a great deal of fun. We encourage you not to hesitate in returning your applications; our clinics fill quickly, and we are often forced to return applications.
